DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn (see Interview Summary for further details). After further consideration of the claim amendments made by Applicant based on the 112 1st Paragraph issues, the examiner notes that the claims still read on the prior art reference Freeman (of record).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-7, 11, 13-28, 32 and 34-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Freeman et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,861,881).

Referring to claim 1, Freeman discloses receiving a set of audio and video streams (see Column 4, Lines 10-12).

Freeman also discloses presenting selected ones of the set of audio and video streams (see Column 5, Lines 38-40).

Freeman also discloses that responsive to a user input to the data processing system, selecting ones of the selected video streams and ones of the selected audio streams for the event, wherein the selecting step omits ones of the selected video streams and ones of the selected audio streams, while retaining ones of the selected video streams and ones of the selected audio streams (see Column 5, Line 55 through Column 6, Line 46 for selecting audio and video streams and seamlessly switching between the streams upon user input, therefore displaying/retaining ones of the audio and video streams while omitting others).

Freeman also discloses presenting the retained ones of the selected video streams and retained ones of the selected audio streams (see Column 5, Lines 38-40 for displaying the audio and video streams).

Referring to claim 2, Freeman discloses presenting the video stream on a display (see monitor 16 in Figure 1).

Freeman also discloses altering a location in the display in which the video stream is presented (see Column 15, Lines 64-67 and Column 16, Lines 1-29).

Referring to claim 3, Freeman discloses selecting different selected ones of the set of video streams for presentation (see Column 10, Lines 43-47).

Referring to claim 4, see the rejection of claim 3.

Referring to claim 5, Freeman discloses selecting different selected ones of the set of audio streams for presentation (see Column 14, Lines 10-30).

Referring to claim 6, see the rejection of claim 5.

Referring to claim 7, Freeman discloses receiving a set of information streams including text (see Column 19, Lines 20-24 and 30-32 for a specific example of displaying text to a user viewing and/or playing an interactive program).

Freeman also discloses that responsive to the user input, selectively presenting selected ones of the sets of information streams on a display (see Column 19, Lines 42-47 for accessing an interactive program and displaying additional web site text information according to the user's inputs).

Referring to claim 8, Freeman discloses that the set of video streams and the set of audio streams include time stamps (see Column 6, Lines 19-23 and Column 11, Lines 55-60).

Freeman also discloses synchronizing the selected ones of the video stream with the selected ones of the audio stream using the time stamps (see Column 11, Line 61 through Column 12, Line 31 and Column 12, Line 32 through Column 13, Line 61).

Referring to claim 9, Freeman discloses that the set of video streams and the set of audio streams include data packets located in the video and audio data stream periodically (see Column 11, Lines 19-22).

Freeman also discloses synchronizing the selected ones of the video stream with the select ones of the audio stream using the data packets (see Column 11, Line 23 through Column 13, Line 61).

Referring to claim 11, Freeman discloses a computer at Column 4, Lines 15-20 and element 6 in Figure 1.

Referring to claim 13, Freeman discloses a television at Column 7, Lines 38-43.

Referring to claim 14, see the rejection of claim 1 and further note that Freeman teaches the additional limitation of responsive to user input, assigning the retained ones of the selected video streams and retained ones of the selected audio streams to respective portions of video and audio output devices (see Column 4, Lines 42-57 and Figure 1 for the output devices that are assigned the audio and video streams and further note Column 5, Lines 39-40 for the user input that allows a selection (assignment) of audio and video for display on the output devices).

Referring to claims 15-16, see the rejection of claim 11.

Referring to claim 17, Freeman discloses that the set of video and audio streams are provided from a first source (see element 38 in Figure 1 and Column 2, Lines 39-60).

Referring to claim 18, Freeman discloses providing a second video stream from a second source (see Column 2, Lines 39-60 and element 42 in Figure 1).

Referring to claim 19, Freeman discloses providing a second audio stream from a second source (see Column 2, Lines 39-46).

Referring to claim 20, Freeman discloses that the set of video, audio and information streams are provided from at least two different sources (see Column 2, Lines 47-60).

Referring to claim 21, Freeman discloses that the set of video, audio and information streams are provided via a broadband network (see Column 5, Lines 45-67 and Figure 5).

Referring to claims 22-28, see the rejection of claims 1-7, respectively.

Referring to claims 29-30, see the rejection of claims 8-9, respectively.

Referring to claims 32 and 34, see the rejection of claims 11 and 13, respectively.

Art Unit: 2623

Referring to claims 35-42, see the rejection of claims 14-21, respectively.

Referring to claims 43-44, see the rejection of claims 1 and 14, respectively.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 12 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Freeman et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,861,881) in view of Bobilin et al. (U.S. Patent No. 4,316,285).

Referring to claim 12, Freeman and Bobilin disclose all of the limitations in claim 1, as well as the data processing system being a computer (see the rejection of claim 11), but fails to teach a personal digital assistant. The examiner takes Official Notice that personal digital assistants are well known to supplement computers for use in displaying multiple video, audio and text streams. At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, to modify the computer, as taught by Freeman and Bobilin, using the personal digital assistant, for the purpose of providing the user with a compact device for receiving and viewing the different types of video, audio and data streams.

Referring to claims 33, see the rejection of claim 12.
